
A NOVEL · HARD SCIENCE FICTION

Aquatopia

They laughed him off the stage for saying the future was down, not up. Then the sky fell.

by Stanton

An engineer builds a city inside an undersea mountain. When Yellowstone erupts, it becomes humanity's ark. But the city's own AI has been keeping secrets about who was chosen to survive.

- For readers of Andy Weir, Blake Crouch and Michael Crichton
- Grounded in real ocean engineering and science
- A local Las Vegas author's debut novel

FORMAT	RETAIL PRICE	ISBN	AMAZON ASIN
Paperback, 6 × 9 in	$14.99	9798187875306	B0HBS78NF6

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Stanton spent his career running data centers, keeping critical systems alive no matter what. That engineering mind drives Aquatopia's case that humanity's best backup may be under the ocean, not on Mars. He lives in Las Vegas.

FOR BOOKSELLERS

Available to local and independent bookstores on consignment, with copies delivered in person around Las Vegas. To carry this book, email stanton@stantonwerks.com.